

SENATOR CARPENTER: OK, then move it across if you will.

PRESIDENT: Alright the, there was a motion on the desk, and that has now been withdrawn, is that the idea?

CLERK: Yes.

PRESIDENT: Does anybody object to the withdrawal of....was that Senator Carpenter's motion?

CLERK: Yeah, it really was never offered.

(end belt #9)

(start belt #10)

PRESIDENT: Alright, fine. Senator Skarda for what purpose do you wish to be recognized?

SENATOR SKARDA: To get more information, I am going to direct a question to Senator Carpenter.

PRESIDENT: OK, Senator Carpenter do you yield?

SENATOR SKARDA: Senator Carpenter, I wonder if you would go into detail, I'm sorry, but I wasn't here. As to why you don't want this to apply to first class cities. You might alert me to something that I am not aware of. I certainly don't want to stand here as an individual representing a Metropolitan City and do something to the people that might be derogative to their thinking. Would you be kind enough to exploit this a little more.

SENATOR CARPENTER: Well, as it now is Senator, they do it by certified mail. As I understand the merits of the bill it cost 30-40-50¢ apiece. Sometimes particularly in the city of Omaha they run into thousands of pieces of property probably. They feel that by sending it out by general mail for 8¢ then they make a certified abstract indicating that they have send the mail out by general or ordinary mail. Now what this does for example, I don't care what the cost is because I think that we ought to notify these people by registered mail as to what is about to happen to them. They may not reject it, but at least we alert them. I think that the price is cheap at 35 or 40¢ each one of them. Now I know how cities operate. I know how governments operate and I know how a lot of people take advantage of these multitudes by the elimination of the curtailing of notices. One of these days they will wake up and say how does this happen? It happens that way then and that is what first class cities want it for. They want it to happen before anybody knows about it. Now in Omaha if that is what the people want, I have got no objection to Omaha in this case, even though I am the thirteenth member. I am not concerned to this extent. That is your problem. If I lived in Omaha a I would not be for the bill. Does that answer your question?

PRESIDENT: Any further discussion now to the bill? Senator Goodrich, do you have any closing remarks on the bill?

SENATOR GOODRICH: Just one remark. That it is to try and satisfy Senator Skarda. The people will still be notified. Everyone of them. It is just a matter that they will be notified by first class mail as opposed to certified mail the net effect of it is that the city of Omaha will save between $11,000 and $12,000 each year.
